

From volcanoes to graphene — and more.

Volcanic ash clouds and exploding oil rigs made an emphatic mark on 2010. But the year's most eye-catching photos are not all about disaster. There was plenty of innovation: from record power collisions in the Large Hadron Collider to marine creatures, asteroids, the growth of graphene and colourful views of Earth from space.

Click here for the image slideshow--&gt;

Published online 20 December 2010 | Nature | doi:10.1038/4681018a (License Number: 2573721267036)